Section 2. Hazards and risks

Summary

The National CDEM Plan 2015 identifies core functions for national management of the consequences of emergencies. It may also address the management of consequences of other emergencies not otherwise able to be managed by a lead agency.

The hazards and risks to be managed under the CDEM Act 2002 and the National CDEM Plan 2015 include any hazard that may result in an emergency.

The National Hazardscape Report identifies the seventeen most prevalent hazards in New Zealand and the principal means by which each of them is managed.

Contents

2.1 Hazards and risks to be managed at national level	2
2.2 National risk assessment for hazards
2.3 National consequences to manage	4
2.4 References and links	6

Section 3. Management of emergencies

Summary

The CDEM Act 2002 and other legislation identify the statutory powers, structures, and arrangements that government uses to manage an emergency. The CDEM Act 2002 places obligations on agencies to prepare for and manage emergencies effectively and efficiently.

Contents

The section contents are:

3.1 States of emergency	2
3.2 System of Domestic and External Security Coordination (ODESC system)
3.3 Lead agency role in emergencies at the national level	4
3.4 Support agency role in emergencies at national level	6
3.5 Director of Civil Defence Emergency Management	7
3.6 National Controller	7
3.7 Group Controllers and Local Controllers	8
3.8 References and links	8

Section 4. General roles and responsibilities

Summary

The CDEM Act 2002 and National CDEM Plan 2015 establish specific roles and responsibilities. The acceptance of these roles and responsibilities by both public and private sector organisations is a key element in CDEM planning. Agencies also make commitments beyond their responsibilities under the CDEM Act 2002 and National CDEM Plan 2015 in order to reduce the impact of an emergency and manage the consequences.

Section 32. Recovery

Summary

Communities can be severely disrupted by emergencies, and recovering from the impacts of an emergency can be a complex process. Recovery generally seeks to minimise the consequences of an emergency, restore essential community services and functions, reduce future exposure to hazards and their risks, and regenerate and enhance community well-being.

Recovery starts as soon as possible during the response phase of an emergency, and continues well after an emergency has ceased. Recovery addresses community needs across the social, economic, natural, and built environments, in a holistic and coordinated manner.

Guide to the National CDEM Plan 2015

Background

This Guide to the National Civil Defence Emergency Management Plan 2015 (the Guide) accompanies the National Civil Defence Emergency Management Plan Order 2015 (the National CDEM Plan 2015).

Purpose

The purpose of the Guide is to assist and support New Zealand agencies to achieve the purpose and objectives of the National CDEM Plan 2015.

The Guide provides information on operational arrangements and additional information in support of the *National CDEM Plan 2015*¹.

The Guide includes:

- the wording of the National CDEM Plan 2015, as made by Order in Council
- operational information, such as explanations (including diagrams, figures, and tables), relevant operating procedures, and national policy, and
- references to other planning, operational arrangements, and guidelines.

National CDEM Plan 2015

The National CDEM Plan 2015 is made under sections 39–47 of the Civil Defence Emergency Management Act 2002 (CDEM Act 2002). It aims to integrate and align agencies' CDEM planning and related operational activities at the national level.

The inter-relationships (illustrated in Figure 1) between core CDEM agencies, other government departments and agencies, such as lifeline utility operators and non-government organisations, are aimed at supporting communities to manage emergencies. These relationships are underpinned by the National CDEM Plan 2015, Civil Defence Emergency Management Group (CDEM Group) Plans, and local arrangements (non-statutory planning and operating procedures) of local authorities, businesses, and service providers within communities.

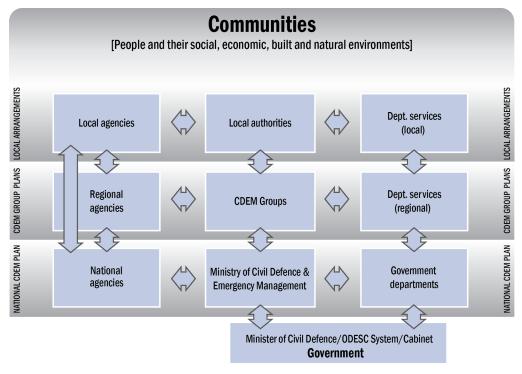

Figure 1: Inter-relationships between core CDEM agencies and other government departments and agencies who support communities to manage emergencies.

The National CDEM Plan 2015, published as a regulation, is not a suitable format for providing commentary and operational detail, or for the regular updating of minor changes and advances in planning arrangements.

Status of the Guide

While the Guide is not a statutory requirement under the CDEM Act 2002, it is referred to in the National CDEM Plan 2015 and is approved by government.

The Guide comes into effect when the National CDEM Plan 2015 is operative from 1 December 2015.

The National CDEM Plan 2015 may remain in place for up to five years before review (CDEM Act 2002, section 46). However, the Guide is intended to be a 'living document'. It can be updated and republished, in whole or by section, as planning and operational arrangements are further developed and refined during the life of the National CDEM Plan 2015.

New developments and refinements may include:

- clarification or changes of roles, responsibilities, or procedures of agencies or clusters
- adjustments to capacity and capability, and the introduction of new technology and systems
- new or revised government policy that affects CDEM, and
- resolution of gaps and weaknesses in CDEM arrangements as identified through operational exercises and actual emergencies.

Audience for the Guide

The Guide is for the use of emergency management practitioners and those persons otherwise responsible for ensuring their agencies are ready for, can respond to, and recover from, emergencies.

The Guide can assist all managers when determining appropriate action across the 4Rs (reduction, readiness, response, and recovery).

Format of the Guide

The Guide sections correspond to related clauses of the National CDEM Plan 2015 that are reproduced in full in the Guide. Additional commentary and relevant operational detail follows each clause as appropriate. The structure of the Guide is illustrated in Figure 2 on the next page.

Each section of the Guide must be read as a whole, including the clauses from the National CDEM Plan 2015.

Tables of contents and numbering within each section, page footers and colour coding assist navigation of the Guide.

The format allows for the issuing of updated sections of the Guide through:

- cross-referencing between sections being kept to a minimum (where it does occur, the link is to main section headings and not to sub-headings or page numbers), and
- appendices being used for information that may be updated regularly, such as contact lists.

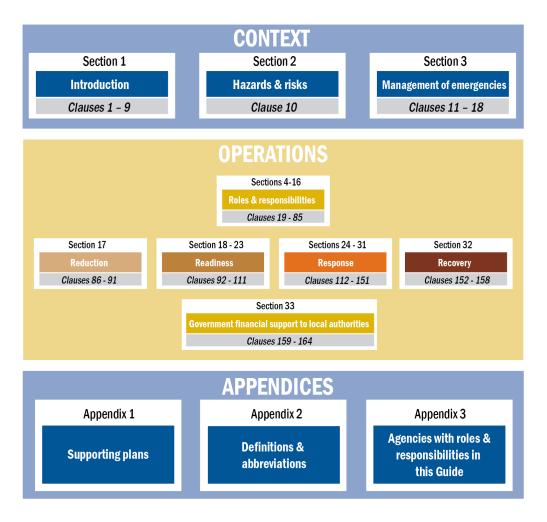

Figure 2: The Guide has 33 sections and three appendices organised into three parts (context, operations, and appendices). Each section of the Guide includes the relevant wording from the National CDEM Plan 2015 in grey shaded boxes numbered by part and clause.

Key abbreviations

The following key abbreviations are used throughout the Guide.

4Rs Reduction, readiness, response, recovery
CDEM Civil Defence Emergency Management

MCDEM Ministry of Civil Defence & Emergency Management

See Appendix 2 for the full list of definitions and abbreviations used in both the National CDEM Plan 2015 and this Guide.

The Director, Civil Defence Emergency Management will issue updates to the Guide which are required for technical or editorial reasons.

MCDEM will amend the Guide to reflect CDEM sector development or changes in relevant government policy, in consultation with relevant agencies and Ministers.

Comments and suggestions on material in the Guide can be emailed at any time to NationalCDEM.Plan@dpmc.govt.nz. These will be reviewed in updating the Guide.

Updates will be issued in full or by section. Advice of updates will be given, and users of the Guide should ensure they have the latest version. The current Guide and individual sections can be located at www.civildefence.govt.nz (search for 'Guide to the National Civil Emergency Management Defence Plan').
